WASHINGTON'S DAY

Patriotic Citizens Are Celebrating It in Various Ways.

Volunteer Firemen Gather in Brooklyn to Parade.

Many Banquets and Entertainments to Be Held To-Night.

Washington's Birthday is being observed by all patriotic New Yorkers in It is a day of rest for the tollers, a day of quiet in the busy marts of the city. All public offices, National, State and municipal, are closed; the exstores and most of the retail establish-

The starry flag floats from the peaks of the City Hall, Post-Office, Custom-House ousand private buildings. The downtown streets are almost deserted, while uptown thoroughfares are filled with people in holiday dress.

Many parades, drills, meetings, social gatherings, receptions banquets and balls have been planned for the day and evening to give expression to the patricular feelings of the participants, and these programmes are being carried out in all parts of New York, Brooklyn and the rest of the metropolis.

Obi Glory was raised, in accordance with immemorable custom, at Battery Park at sunrise. Christopher R. Forbes, great-grandson of Capt, John Van Arsdale, the Revolutionary hero, performed that honorable service, surrounded by representatives of several organizations, and a 100-gun salute was fired at the same moment on Fort Greene, Brooklyn, by Stephenson Post, Grand Army of the Republic.

At daybreak, Capt, John G. Norman.

by Stephenson Post, Grand Army of the Republic.

At daybreak, Capt. John G. Norman, supported by the Washington Continental Guard, descendants of the heroes of 17:a-and 1812, gave the Stars and stripes to the crisp breezes and the right February sun on the block-house in Central Park. The Pequod Ciub of ammany braves also participated. The motto of the Washington Continentals s "We Love Our Country," and that of the Pequods is "We Love Those Who Love Our Country."

The Exempt Firemen's Association of the city of New York made the earliest manifestation of the day in the steets of New York. These old veterans, with the Mount Vernon Exempt Firemen's Association, this morning, descended upon Brooklyn, where they were to join with the Brooklyn Veteran Volunteer Firemen in their annual parade.

Among the New York exempts were their President, Commissioner of Jurors Robert B. Nooney: Larry Dalton, of Washington Market; Peter J. Hickey, Larry Marley, the oysterman; John Tangleman, three times Mayor of Hoboken; Peter Masterson, Tim Donovan, the great real estate operator; Jim McVey, of the Post-Office Registry Department; Martle Keese, keeper of the City Hall; Dave Ploneer, of the United States Court squad, and last but not least, Harry Howard, the venerable chief of the old-time Volunteer Fire Department.

There are 108 members in the Mount Vernon Exempt Firemen's Association, and 89 of them came on from New York's youngest sister city to Join in the celebration. Their President is William A. Anderson, and among the members present were ex-Chief, now City Clerk Elias Pease, City Marshal Martin J. Bennett, Assessor John H. Cordes and Fire Commissioner Frank Bruce.

Their uniform is similar to that of the New York men, a tan-colored overcoat, blue trousers, red shirt and cone helmet. The programme for the day called for their return to New York at 2 o'clock for dinner at the Everett Hotel, the famous old hostelry at Washington Market, where "The Evening World" dined 500 newshoys one Christmas Day and Albant sang to them.
The Workingman's School, 109 West Fifty-fourth street, celebrated the day with its annual inspection and exercises at 10 o'clock, under the direction of Dr. M. P. E. Groszmann, the Superintendent. The classes were put through the regular routine, and the kindergarten was in session simultaneously from 10 tol 10 clock, all in exemplification of the system of "saming by doing."
The school, originally intended exclusively for the children of working people, but now admitting a limited number of paying pupils, was founded by the Society for Ethical Culture in 1878. It now has 400 pupils, and its maintenance cost 128,000 last year. Leo G. Rosenblatt is the President. Louis Seligsberg Secretary, and M. Beckhard Treasurer.
At 10 o'clock, also, 600 recently arrived Russian Hoberew children, composing the English day classes of the Baron de Hirsch Fund, were gathered in the Hehre Henderson street, to receive instruction on the man Washington, and the American institutions which they should love and the Mandonald bust of Washington in the Post-Odice of the Sanger of the Washington in the Post-Odice of the Macdonald bust of Washington in the Post-Odice of the Sanger of the Washington in the Post-Odice of the Sanger of the Sanger of the Washington in the Post-Odice of the Macdonald bust of Washing

The unveiling of the Macdonald bust of Washington in the Post-Office at 11 o'clock was not the least enthusiastic feature of the day.

Other observances included a luncheon and music by the General Society of the Daughters of the Bevolution at the home of Mrs. Charles Francis Stone, Audubon Park, Washington Heights.

The Museum of Natural History and the Museum of Natural History and the Museum of Art were open free all day, and at the former Prof. A. S. Bickmore's topic for the free lecture at 3.30 f. M. was: "Midway Plaisance of the World's Fair."

Three o'clock was the hour fixed for the opening of the new Training-School for Nurses, at the German Hospital, Park avenue and Seventy-seventh street; for a charity concert given at West Twenty-second street, and for the review

Last night the tenants were vaccinated, and this morning the furniture of the two stricken families was fumigated. The walls of the tenement were also washed down.

There may be more cases in the tenement, and inspectors will keep a constant guard there for the next few days. How far the disease may have spread is only a matter for conjecture. The children mingled freely together, and many of them attend the schools in the neighborhood. The health officials hope that the vaccination, which has been freely done in the neighborhood will have a good effect.

It is principally on account of this that he based his belief that the name Minor had been assumed. In further support of this theory it has been learned that there is no person of the name of Miner living in Shelton, Conn., although there are several prominent persons of that name in West Ansonia, several miles from Shelton.

The only other marks on the woman's clothing were the date Jan. 24, 1894, stamped with red ink in her shoes, and the name of a milliner in gitl letters inside of her hat.

The milliner's name is R. Ballerstein, 360 and 362 Main street, Bridgeport, Conn. In her pockets were also found a purse containing $9.50 and a small key.

The woman went to the Grand Union Hotel late last night. Apparently she had arrived by the Boston express of the New York, New Haven and Hariford Railroad, which got here at 16 o'clock.

On opjening the door, he found that the woman had turned on every gas jet in the room.

A three-ounce bottle containing laudanum lay on the floor.

Medical aid was summoned, and a Flower Hospital ambulance took her to Believue Hospital, where, although every effort was made to resuscitate her, she died an hour after her arrival.

She was a good-looking blonde of about thirty-three years. Her clothing indicated refinement, although it was of a fashion that prevailed many years ago.
